

real

Farmington's new smoke-free ordinance is strong, enforceable and fair. It protects everyone – employees and customers alike – from dangerous exposure to secondhand smoke.

freedom

Now Farmington residents have the freedom to breathe smoke-free air. Air free from toxins that cause heart disease, lung disease, cancer, and birth defects. Air free from the 4,000 chemicals that are contained in secondhand smoke.

thanks

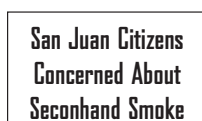

Thanks to the following members of the Farmington City Council for their courage and belief in protecting the health of all of Farmington's residents and visitors. Thanks for giving us real protections from the clear dangers of a known killer.

Councilor Dan Darnell

Councilor Jason Sandel

Councilor George Sharpe

The Farmington Clean Indoor Air Ordinance takes effect on January 1, 2007 and requires all workplaces, restaurants, bars and other public places to be smoke-free.
